New Voter Registration Guidelines Due

New guidelines for voter registration which are the result of a compromise between various officials will be announced next week from the Randall County tax office.

Joe Batson, member of the Democratic executive committee, Tom Price, Randall County Republican chairman, Mel Gierhart, president of the WTSU student senate, Bob McClendon, assistant district attorney, Josie Towery, supervisor of voter registration and John Guthrie, chief deputy tax assessor-collector and Mrs. Audrey Bruse met Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Bruse said Friday, "We were all in complete agreement."

Joe Batson stated all of the officials present at the meeting came to a good understanding and agreed to cooperate and work to get the voters registered.

"Alot of problems could have been avoided if we had sat down and worked this out earlier," Batson declared.

Pending clarification from the secretary of state Mrs. Bruse will release a press statement on the new rules for registration,

"Edwin Booth" On Stage Wednesday

The life and times of one of the most brilliant and troubled giants of the American theatre will unfold on the West Texas State University Branding Iron Theatre stage Feb. 16-19 in "Edwin Booth."

The Milton Geiger play will be produced by the speech and drama department.

Directing the play is William Angus Moore, associate professor of speech. His wife, Margaret Echols Moore, is acting coach and James Kemmerling, instructor in speech, is designer and technical director.

Travis Dean, Amarillo sophomore, portrays Booth, the man whose life, in the playwright's words, was "bracketed in sheer theatre" and whose life was "probably the most melodramatic in the theatre archives."

One of 10 children of the volcanic and dipsomanic actor, Junius Brutus Booth, Edwin's early years were troubled by the drunken bouts of his father between stage appearances.

The "mad Booths of Maryland," one of whom was to assassinate President Lincoln, swept like meteors across the 19th century American stage, leaving a lasting imprint on theatre, being renown both for their brilliance as well as their debauchery.

Dr. William Laur, Amarillo physician currently studying drama under Moore, is cast as William Winter, the sometimes caustic American theatre critic known for a rigid Victorianism that "even the English monarch herself could not improve on."

Dr. Laur is well known to area theatre-goers for his numerous leading roles in Amarillo Little Theatre productions.

Also cast in the play are Sheila O'Keefe, Amarillo freshman, as Mary Devlin, Booth's actress-wife; Paula Meller, Canyon senior, as Edwina Booth, his sister; and Steve Garre, Amarillo sophomore, as Junius Brutus Booth the Younger.

Jerry Woodward, Pampa junior, portrays Edwin the adoles-

Meets Tuesday

Canyon School Board Trustees have a full agenda for their regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, according to Supt. Jerry Jacobs.

The board will discuss renewing contracts for administrative, supervisory and counseling personnel, and will appoint an equalization board.

They will also consider recommendations from the joint professional communications committee concerning the local salary scale, and they will make a decision about paving 1½ blocks along 11th Street.

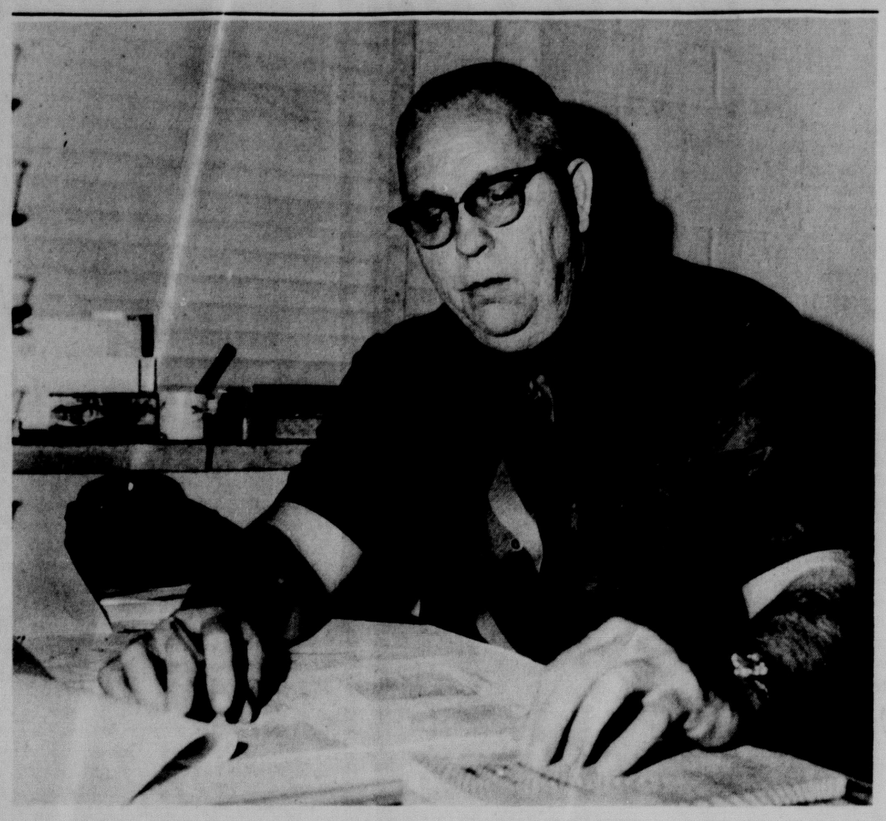
Jacobs said the board will then meet in executive session to discuss personnel with supervisors.

Red Cross Favors United Way Drive

Canyon board of the Red Cross voted Friday to begin negotiations to join the Amarillo chapter and to support Canyon's participation in the United Way.

At a directors meeting at noon Friday, the board voted to go on record in favor of Canyon joining the Amarillo United Way, and to talk with the Amarillo Red Cross in combining efforts.

Jerry LaGrone, president, said talks would begin immediately. He also authorized letters be sent to the state Red Cross office explaining the decision, and letters to the Canyon chamber of commerce and the president of the Amarillo United Way expressing their interest and support of a possible United Way effort in Canyon.



Merle Strickland, fingerprint expert for the Randall County Sheriff's office, said Friday it is impossible for two persons to be born with identical fingerprints. Strickland's statement was made in answer to an article in the Amarillo Globe-Times and the Amarillo Daily News.

Says Expert

'Prints Must Differ

Merle Strickland, fingerprint expert with the Randall County Sheriff's office, issued a rebuttal Friday to an article on amniotic twins carried in the Amarillo Globe-Times Thursday and the Amarillo Daily News Friday.

"The inaccuracy of this article is of such magnitude that it could affect our entire judicial system as well as that of the world's judical system," Strickland declared.

The article stated the twins should bear identical fingerprints and footprints.

"It is impossible for them to bear identical fingerprints and footprints," Stickland exclaimed.

Strickland said he had seen one case of amniotic twins and their fingerprints were very similar but definitely not identical. "A comparison of fingerprints has never shown them to be identical," Strickland pointed out.

If it were ever proven two person's fingerprints were identical, it would nullify our whole system that has been in used since 1906, he said.

"When the children are older, fingerprints can be compared and show the difference," Strickland explained.

The Science of Fingerprints published by the Federal Bureau of Investigation of the United States Department of Justice states, "of all the methods of identification, fingerprinting alone has proved to be both infallible and feasible.

"To date, the fingerprints of no two individuals have been found to be identical," The statement is signed by J. Edgar Hoover, director.

Strickland has completed studies at the Institute of Applied Science, the Texas Department of Public Safety, and the Amarillo Police Department. He said he is qualified in most of the district courts in northern Texas as a fingerprint expert. He has taught fingerprinting courses in several police academies and has 20 years experience.

Voter Drive Director Says No 'Dark Motive'

Buck Ramsey, director of a voter registration drive to be conducted on the campus of West Texas State University, called a meeting Wednesday to answer charges leveled at the drive by Greg Harms, president of the Young Republicans.

"We want to assure everyone who wants to become involved in this drive that there is no dark motive," Ramsey said.

The drive, sponsored by Stanley Marsh of Amarillo and other private individuals, opened headquarters Tuesday at 2201 4th Ave.

Harms, candidate for state representative in the 67th district, was quoted in the "Prairie" as saying, he thought the Marsh sponsored drive might be "looking for trouble" and is "not breaking the law, but is shady."

Ramsey said Wednesday, "This office notes with regret that Greg Harms — has imagined and stated that there is something shady about the voter registration drive we are launching this week.

"As head of a reputable campus organization and candidate for state office, he should know — or must soon learn — how to substantiate such charges. We call upon him to do that at this time in this case."

Ramsey continued, "We used to learn in civics and government classes that it is the right of every qualified citizen to register and vote and the duty of every responsible citizen to register and vote.

"We are sorry to learn now that some people think registering potential voters is some kind of shady or subsersive activity, and we are particularly sorry that Mr. Harms agrees with them."

Ramsey said he hoped there were several voter registration drives started on the campus and pledged the monetary support of his organization to the Young Republicans drive.

Ramsey said his organization planned an area-wide voter registration drive in the future which he hoped would include a contest between area high schools.

Ramsey asked the student representatives present at the meeting for their help in the registration drive.

Three members of the student senate and four members of the press attended the meeting.

"I hate to think we have to go out and hire registrars to canvas the dorms," Ramsey stated.

As to the small student turnout for the meeting Ramsey said, "This should be an embarrassment to me that there was this small a turnout for this meeting but I think it is a greater embarrassment for your student body."

Mel Geirhart, president of the student senate said that he believed the students were confused about voter registration. "They don't know where to go or

Praises WT Graduate

President Richard M. Nixon has commended a recent West Texas State University graduate for overcoming a severe disability and earning a college degree.

In a letter dated Jan. 19, the President wrote Alan Love, 24, of Houston:

"Mrs. Nixon and I were pleased to hear news of you recently and to learn of your remarkable success in leading a full life although you have been deaf since soon after you were born.

"Your determination to complete your education is an example to all of us, and I have every hope that the same spirit will continue to serve you well for years to come. Your example helps us to learn more fully that no handicap is insurmountable when a man has an unlimited view of himself and an ounce of help from his fellows."

Love, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Love of Houston, was graduated last December with a bachelor's degree in data processing and computer science.

He said he lost his hearing when he was two weeks old after an illness. News stories at the time of Love's graduation apparently came to the attention of President Nixon and prompted the chief executive's letter.

Members of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce toured Fassauer Industries Thursday as part of a plan to tour an industry a month, according to David West. Brad Garner was selected for second chair in the flute section out of 25 students across the state vying for chair positions.

Others to make the Symphonic Band were Leslie Baird and Nancy King in the clarinet section, and Teddi Crager in the flute section.

Attorney Bob Slough Files For State Rep

Bob D. Slough, Amarillo attorney, announced his candidacy Thursday for the Republican nomination for State Representative in the 65th District.

"I am not a captive of any special interest groups. I am my own man," Slough declared.

Slough stated in his announcement the legislature elected in November will be the most important ever elected in the state of Texas because the members will convene as a Constitutional Convention if the voters pass H.J.R. 61.

The members of the legislature will then have the power to rewrite the Texas constitution which will affect the fundamental structure of the government and laws of the State of Texas, he declared.

"It will be a time for greatness on the part of the representatives of the people, not a time for the political games that the politicians have been playing in the past, not a time for the corruption that has plagued the State of Texas."

Slough urged the voters of the 65th district to consider which candidate can and will impartially represent all the people and work to protect them in the Legislature and the Constitutional Convention.

Industry Creates Revolutionary Schemes

BY ELAINE PEEPLES

A revolutionary metering device which could simplify the techniques of industry and the consumer alike has been developed by Fassauer Industries of Canyon.

The system is the first able to accurately weigh microingredients, according to Bud Fassauer.

Inquiries for the machines have been made nation-wide, Fassauer said, and the company is projecting a foreign market and foreign patents.

Fassauer explained through research of the industry he found there were few, if any, metering systems that will dispense with a degree of accuracy.

"We have an innovation in metering systems whereby we can meter fine powdered material up to pelitized material," Fassauer noted.

Fassauer explained most all products are made from a powdered material and in the past the material has been weighed and measured by hand.

The hand-measuring method has been used when a microingredient is added to a very large amount of material because there has not been a product on the market to measure accurately, Fassauer related.

The complex system will be sold to the feed lot industry, feed mills, water treatment plants, the plastic and rubber industries and any industry that handles powdered or granulated micoringredients, additives and supplements, Fassauer pointed out.

The company also manufactures automatic dog feeders, horse feeders and other small animal feeders and dispensers for soap and coffee.

A machine to measure when a bin is full is also being manufactured. Through a remote control system, Fassauer explained, the system will give off a signal to alert the operator to turn off the grain flow.

All of the feeders can be programmed to feed by remote control. The dog feeder can be operated by remote control to feed at a certain time, in a certain amount for nine days.

Fassauer said the marketing potential to industry and the average consumer would be about the same.

The Fassauer company has patents or have applied for patents on all the devices and is presently marketing the complex metering device.

Fassauer declared he began work on the devices because he had a personal use for an accurate metering device and could not find one on the market.

The Food and Drug Administrations rules are also becoming stricter, he said, in food manufacturing and it will be essential in the future to have a

The cry of discrimination raised by the women's group that filed a complaint against West Texas State University has created some interest around town.

The women's group charges discrimination in hiring and paying of women and they are critical of WT's policy of not hiring a husband and wife team.

I think legally WT would have a tough time supporting the nepotism policy, and the department of Health, Education and Welfare will have to be the judge of discrimination.

One previous female dean explained part of the problem may be that a single woman who has the proper credentials for high er pay and position would probably not select Canyon over some other university because of the social aspects. And a married woman with a Ph.D. would be accepted at WT but her husband might have trouble finding a job in this area of the country. So WT might have a smaller selection scope than universities located in larger industrial areas or cities.

But it will be interesting to watch if changes come about on campus as a result of the complaint.

Certainly there are some women who feel changes are overdue. In fact, many women think changes throughout the social and business world are overdue, and they are eagerly looking for even breaks at home and on the jobs.

Canyon Chamber of Commerce is studying the pros and cons of supporting a combined effort of Amarillo and Canyon in the United Way.

At this point a committee of the chamber is talking with businessmen to get feedback and to chairmen of each drive who solicit funds during the year.

The handful of men and women who are responsible for raising 99 per cent of all the money for drives and campaigns are getting weary of walking into offices with their hands out.

If the load were shared equally among 400 people instead of 20, it might not be so overwhelming, but at this point many of those volunteers are saying — why not consolidate into one drive instead of 12 to 15?

The chamber will come up with some facts and figures, and in turn pass them along to the town folks. The decision must rest with the residents of Canyon and the people who work with the yearly drives. And that is going to take some interest and participation to find out about the present system of raising money and the proposed United Way.

Still no word from the highway department about the bypass of I-27 around Canyon, and the light dims for the city to combat the commission's decision to run the corridor east rather than west.

Hopefully, by going through "channels" we might do some good, but most small towns have found the way is futile. The only luck they have is in postponing action for several years, but when it comes down to it, the highway department wins.

The leaders in Canyon have their work cut out for them to persuade the Congressmen, commissioners, or the President to change the route to the west side of town.

Manly Bryan aptly expressed the crux of the matter: "The routing of this relatively short section of the interstate directly affects only the citizens of Canyon in the long run."

high degree of accuracy.

"We have developed a very unique flow system where we can dispense accurately from grams, ounces, or pounds." Fassauer explained, "by programming the machine for a particular need."

The manufacturing of the parts is currently being done in Dallas, Amarillo and Illinois and the parts are shipped to Canyon for assembly. All of the products will be marketed from Canyon.

Fassauer said he expected to have quite a large staff working at the plant in Canyon in a year and he hoped to use college students.

"We are expecting a good volume and a good potential for all our products," he said.

The company is presently building an addition to the building to take care of manufacturing and assembly of the products.

The horse and dog feeders are expected to be available in about 3 months, Fassauer said.

Fassauer who was the innovator of the devices, said he had worked with inventions most of his life. He also has an assigned patent on an impervious trench silo cover which was developed four years ago.

Fassauer developed an impervious material which is sprayed over the surface of the silo and becomes part of the surface. The material controls adverse bacteria and fermintation loss in silage storage, Fassauer explained.

It is also projected to be an edible cover and can be fed along with the feed.

Fassauer also has an assigned patent with a Lubbock firm involving the largest battery of upright silos for storage of silage in the world. The diameter of the silos are 40 feet and the height 80 feet and they are fully automated.

Fassauer spent 12 years as a construction engineer with Roberts Construction Company building terminal, concrete, slip-form elevators for grain storage.

He was also construction manager for Panhandle Steel Buildings in Amarillo and became involved in agricultural sales in 1960.

Fassauer said he saw the need for different storage and different concepts that would be useful for the agricultural industry and industry as a whole which motivated him to try to do something about it.

Fassauer became involved with research and development of the metering devices and opened his building in Canyon about a year ago.

Fassauer and his wife, LaVone live at 420 Foster Lane. Their son, Bryan, worked with Fassauer until he left for the army in January. Fassauer said he hoped his son would join him in the Canyon business when he returned.

The Fassauer's also have two other children, Debbie who is majoring in art at Southern Methodist University and Brett, 11, who attends Rex Reeves Elementary School.

Fassauer said he had received help from Dr. Will O'Rourke and Dr. Dick Divens, both nutritionalists from Amarillo, and Joe Roberts has been very helpful in research and development.

Gierhart said that the students were mainly concerned with falsification of intent on their applications.

In answer to questions Ramsey stated that he agreed that it should not be necessary to ask people to register to vote but that he thought citizenship should be encouraged that far.

"Our particular concern with the students is that they unlearn apathy from the elders and get in the habit of registering and voting in the beginning of adulthood," Ramsey said.

Ramsey said at the present time he was not being paid to help with the drive and that his organization was not interested in registering a block vote.

End of an Era. . . .

The Cornettes set out the jonquils for which the house is named during the spring of the year they moved in. In the back, the brick walls are covered with English ivy grown from a cutting from Mount Vernon.

Mrs. James P. Cornette, Mrs. Grace Warwick, and Dr. Cornette pose during a publication tea given for Mrs. Warwick upon release of her history, "The Randall County Story." The house has been the scene of many official functions.

Mrs. Cornette and her granddaughter view themselves in the dining room mirror at "Jonquils."

Miss Linda Cornette, granddaughter of the Cornettes, stands with her grandmother before the living room fireplace. The stork painting over the mantel is a gift from Tenkei Tachibana, Japanese artist, whose work was brought to Canyon by Mrs. Cornette for her Canyon Art Gallery.

Dr. and Mrs. Cornette and Linda relax in the long living room in the president's home. The watercolors above the sofa are by Dr. Emilo Caballero, head of the WTSU art department. "Our paintings are all sentimental," said Mrs. Cornette. They are works done by friends or are specially cherished for some other reason.

Mrs. Donna Greer works with a file fo school memorabilia at the WTSU Library. She is hoping to receive donations from former students and others to add to the collection, which includes a 1911 yearbook, "Cap Rock Echoes."

Library File Yields School History

Autographed copies of a speech by Dr. R. B. Cousins, the first president of West Texas State Normal School, a copy of the school's first bulletin, files of "The Prairie" since 1919, and the school's yearbook for 1911, when it was called "Cap Rock Echoes," are among the "miscellaneous items" discovered by Miss Bertie Mae Williams, head reference librarian at WTSU, during a cleaning project last spring.

Miss Williams was emptying a wooden filing cabinet destined for discard when she found the collection on the school's social history.

The materials have been turned over to Mrs. Donna Greer, assistant reference librarian, who is organizing the files and hopes to add to them.

"We will take anything," she said with emphasis, adding that the library will welcome old college handbooks, other annuals from the school's early years, or items having to do with the demonstration school which was located on the campus until the 1950's.

A picture of the demonstration school's first kindergarten class is in the collection, as are books of stories compiled by first graders in 1917-1918 and 1920-1921.

The files may be used by library patrons, said Mrs. Greer, although they are must be requested. Lack of space prevents their being kept in the reference room.

WT Pianist To Perform

A piano recital by Cecil Lotief of the West Texas State University music faculty is scheduled for Feb. 29 at Howard County Junior College in Big Spring.

The 8 p.m. performance is being presented by the Big Spring Piano Teachers Forum under auspices of the WTSU Friends of Fine Arts Faculty Performance Series. The recital is free to the public.

The series inaugurated this year, provides arts-related organizations in the West Texas area free programs in music, art, speech and drama.

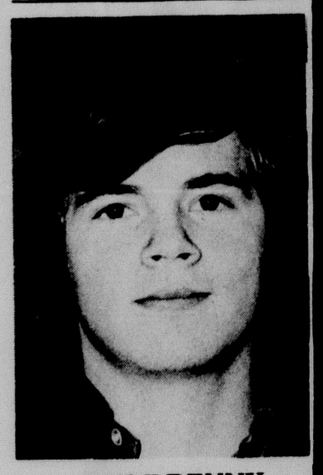
Lotief, a Roman Catholic priest from Rotan, Tex., has been featured in solo piano recitals in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Italy.

He was a first place winner in the National Guild of Pianists and Piano Teachers in 1954.

The artist-teacher holds a Bachelor of Music Degree from North Texas State University, a Bachelor of Sacred Theology Degree from Catholic University of American and a Master of Music Degree in piano from the University of Texas.

He also attended St. Mary's Seminary in Houston, North American College and Gregorian University in Rome, and Conception Seminary in Conception, Mo.

Prior to coming to West Texas State Lotief was a teaching assistant at the University of Texas. Recently he has been working toward a doctorate in musical arts at the University of Iowa.



LYLE DENNY

Lyle Denny Makes Money For Trip

Trombonist Lyle Denny has $336 in his "trip to Vienna" account. He made it by turning in beer cans and helping to haul them, working on Canyon High School Eagle Band projects, and from money earned at a part-time job at the Canyon Car Wash.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Denny likes football, lots of it, especially the Dallas Cowboys.

TIME OUT

BY BENNY TURNER

There are about a dozen boys that will testify today that basketball is not a non-contact sport.

The Eagles lost their last game of the season to the Levelland Lobos Friday night in the most physical high school cage battle that I have ever seen.

Throughout the game people seemed to be sprawled all over the floor. Tempers flared in all four quarters, but never really progressed to fisticuffs.

With :07 seconds left in the game, the Eagles were trailing six points and a Levelland player was in the corner about to take a shot. Eagle James Johnson intentionally fouled him, which was about the only thing he could do.

In fact it was a little more than just a normal foul, because both players went to the floor. The referee raced over to indicate that James was the player guilty of the foul and the very partial Canyon crowd groaned.

As James picked himself off the floor, instead of raising one hand to indicate that he was the one that committed the foul, he raised both hands in a victory sign.

This did not go over very big with the referees, but it certainly did with every Eagle fan. Only thing about it was that James would not put his hands down, which obviously infuriated the ref. But that didn't bother James, nor the crowd. He just kept both hands in the air. By this time the fans were roaring for James, but he was immediately thrown out of the game.

The referees may not have appreciated James' victory sign and probably had to kick him out. No gripes about that. But there can certainly not be any gripes about James' actions.

At the beginning of the season he was a very green and not very good cager. As the season progressed so did James and his ability to help the Eagles. In the early stages of the season he rode the bench most of the game seeing action only rarely.

He did work his way into a starting berth and was a big part in putting them into contention for the district title.

"He and Fred (Grona) improved more during the year than anybody else," said B.B. Kendrick, basketball coach.

In fact the Eagles never really appeared to be a "polished" team. The games they won, they won simply because they wanted to win. They scrapped and hustled to win 13 games.

Kendrick said that he worked this team harder than he has worked any of his teams but "they accepted it. They knew they had to work and they did it without any questions," Kendrick said.

"When Muleshoe beat them earlier in the season, there really wasn't any way for them to win district, but they came back and played Levelland the best they could."

"I just hope they get the credit they deserve," Kendrick added.

BiBiase To Play Football For WT

Ted BiBiase, an all state tackle from Wilcox, Ariz., has signed a Missouri Valley Conference letter of intent with the West Texas State Buffaloes.

BiBiase, son of the late "Iron Mike" BiBiase, a professional wrestler, is 6-4, 220. He was recommended to the WT coaching staff by pro wrestlers Dory Funk, Sr., Dory Funk, Jr., and Terry Funk. Dory, Jr. and Terry are former Buff gridders.

The young BiBiase attended a wrestling match in Arizona in which the Funks were competing. They told him of the school and the football program.

A B-äverage student, he was a three year defensive starter at Wilcox High School for Coach Ed Cathcart. He earned all conference honors on both offense and defense his junior and senior years and was named to the all state team last year.

"Ted has good lateral movement as a defensive tackle," said Coach Cathcart. "He played some at linebacker last season, but was used mainly at defensive tackle. His strongest asset is his willingness to work hard and improve."

Miss Hundley Talks On Eastern Problems

The remainder of Miss Hundley's 44 years of mission work were spent in China and Hawaii.

Mrs. Barney Harrison of Greenville, a cousin of Mrs. Alfred Bellah, was a special guest. Twenty-five members were present.

The women will meet next on Mar. 8.

Eagles Drop Season Finale, 73-67

The Canyon Eagles dropped their final game of the season Friday night 73-67 to the 1-AAA champion Levelland Lobos.

The Eagles grabbed a 16-14 first quarter lead, but Levelland took the advantage in the second period 39-32 and Canyon never saw the lead again.

Levelland came back from halftime and picked up where they left off, stretching their lead to 12 in the third quarter, 56-44. The Eagles canned six straight points as the fourth stanza got underway, trimming the Lobo lead to six. The teams scored the same point for point after that and the game ended with the same six point margin.

The difference in the final score came on the free throw line. Canyon scored one more field goal than Levelland, but hit 13-22 from the free throw line, while Levelland connected on 21 of 34 from the charity line.

"The boys played the best they could," said head coach B.B. Kendrick dejectedly, "And that is all anyone can ask for."

As the fourth quarter opened Grona and Podzemny were in foul trouble with three apiece, and with less than three minutes to go both fouled out.

Early in the fourth quarter the Eagles intimidated the Lobos under the basket and were able to narrow the margin in the physical battle, but midway through the period the Lobos regained their poise and held the Eagles off the remainder of the tilt.

The Eagles ended the season with a 13-15 standard. "We are not used to having a losing season, but this team did not have the benefit of even one workout before the season started. They played the best they could throughout the season, and I am very proud of them," said Kendrick.

Good Neighbors Plan Exercises

Dr. Myron Dees will discuss using music in exercise and help the Good Neighbor Club set up a continuing exercise program when the group meets at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Girl Scout House.

Low-calorie refreshments will be served.

DeeDee Plank will perform a floor ballet in the "Do Your Own Thing" talent show being sponsored by the Heritage Woman's Club at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 19 in Canyon High School Auditorium. Proceeds from the show will be used to buy nursery equipment for Neblett Memorial Hospital.

WT Biologist Talks Of Discharged Firearms

A discharged firearm apparently leaves its own set of "fingerprints" and this can be useful in the investigation of crimes, a West Texas State University biologist says.

Dr. Charles G. Smith is studying residues emitted from a discharging firearm. The objective of the research is to get data about firearms that is amenable to statistical and computer computation, he says.

Results of his research will be presented in a paper to be given at the 24th meeting of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences in Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 29-March 4.

He said the residues are unique to individual firearms much like fingerprints are to human beings.

Smith, 52, whose project was undertaken through the cooperation of the Killgore Research Center on campus, conducted test firings of firearms in a laboratory and collected the residues in spherical bags on which coordinates were inscribed.

The positions of residues were determined in terms of coordinacy, he says.

He says this information is useful in the investigation of crimes where firearms are employed.

Delta Zeta To Initiate

Three girls from Canyon are among the 21 members to be initiated into the WTSU chapter of Delta Zeta sorority Sunday in Joseph Hill Chapel. They are Connie Brazzil, Gail Fite, and Donna Ruthart.

Initiates into the alumnae chapter are Mrs. John Diers, Mrs. Thomas Langford, and Mrs. Thomas Mastroianni, all from Lubbock.

Other new members are Nancy Brandt, Lily Koesjan, Leean Ott, and Susan Fangio, all of Amarillo; Betty Davis and Rita Dill of Andrews; Amy Dozier of Snyder; Ronnie Beth Ebeling of Plainview; Debbie Eubank, Post; Paula Leon, Gay Miller Beverly McDaniel, Petersburg; Carol Olson, Texline; Patty Powell, Tulia; Roxanne Rice, Wildorado; Terri Roark, Vega, and Jan SoRelle, Dumas.

The fall pledge class presented the chapter with a wooden plaque of the sorority crest to hang in their Shirley Hall unit when the group met for a Valentine party Thursday.

Missionary Society Formed In Canyon

A missionary society, The Daughters of the Bible, was formed Tuesday evening in the home of Rev. Jack Pence, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene.

Officers elected at the organizational meeting are Mrs. Marie Raymer, president, Mrs. Delores Glen, vice-president, Mrs. Dorothy Keith, secretary, and Mrs. Pat Wiggins, treasurer.

The women discussed the collection of scraps and construction paper for missionary box work for Lubbock Parkway, a Nazarene mission, made plans for World Day of Prayer Mar. 3, and drew names for secret prayer partners.

Other members present were Mesdames Margie Pence, Christine Ellis, Marguerite Luquette, Juanell Garrett, and Betty Northam, and Miss Wanda Wagner.

HEW Investigates Discrimination

The Women's Equity Action League has indicated in a letter to the Canyon News they will file a complaint against West Texas State University for discrimination against women.

Paula Latimer, secretary of the Texas Division of WEAL said the league would file a complaint against the university with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"That agency's Contract Compliance Office will investigate the university for discrimination against all minorities, including women, and require that appropriate measures be taken to rectify any discriminatory situation," Mrs. Latimer explained in her letter.

Dr. Ray Malzahn, vice-president for academic affairs at WTSU, said Tuesday, "To the best of my knowledge, we do not discriminate in the employment of faculty on the basis of sex."

"The information we gave the News in the preceding article is accurate and correct," Dr. Malzahn said.

Dr. Malzahn released the official statement of the university after he discussed the matter with President James P. Cornette.

The article that both Mrs. Latimer and Dr. Malzahn referred to was published inthe Canyon Sunday News Jan. 23.

The article contained figures released by the university comparing professional status, salary, and education of men and women of the administration and teaching faculty at WTSU.

Mrs. Latimer said the six per cent of women Ph.D.'s at WTSU compares with a national average of 13 per cent.

She also questioned the university's nepotism policy and said the policy in itself was discriminatory.

"The evidence of discrimination against women on the WT campus is so strong that the Women's Equity Action League is filing a complaint against the university with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare," she concluded.

County May Use WT Computer Center

The possibility of tying the Randall County courthouse to the West Texas State University computer center was discussed Monday at a meeting of the County commissioners.

County Clerk LeRoy Hutton was authorized to draw up a plan for use of the computer and report to the commission Monday.

Hutton said that he had discussed the plans with Durwood Henderson and that a computer is available to the county.

Hutton said that the computer center would have to expand its staff in order to care for county business and that the new employee could make himself aware of county problems.

The county will need a program written for the general election in the near future and the commissioners felt that if the work could be done locally it would be easier and cheaper to the county in the long-run.

Hutton said the county could use the computer for elections, tax rolls and voter registration.

The commission received a letter from the Texas Health Commission asking that the court plan and make available a dipping vat in the county for treatment of cattle scabies.

The letter said that the vat should be ready for use by area cattlemen by March 1. Thirty-four Texas counties, including Randall County are currently under quarantine for cattle scabies.

Hutton received authorization from the commission to attend an election seminar in Austin Wednesday. The meeting will be addressed by members of the Attorney General's office, the Secretary of State's office, state representatives and senators and county and state party chairmen.

The commission asked George Dowlen to check on bids for a desk and two executive chairs for the district attorney's office. He was also authorized to check prices on two IBM re-built typewriters.

Dowlen introduced Bob McClendon and Jim Blair, the two new assistant district attorney's, to the commission.

The commission approved the hiring of four new employees for the county, one for the county road department and three for the tax assessor-collectors office.

Mrs. Jan Sanders, wife of senatorial candidate Barefoot Sanders, and their daughter visited the commissioners meeting briefly.

The times for opening and closing the polls for the Amarillo Independent School District election were set by the court at 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The commissioners approved extending the paving on the cemetery road one mile east. Glen Dowlen reported that the court had already provided for the right-of-way at no cost to the county.

The court will hold its next regular meeting at 10 a.m. Monday.

Talent Search Underway For Students

A busload of 32 prospective West Texas State students toured the campus Tuesday under the direction of Learn-Educational Talent Search.

Jerry Garza, of Lubbock, was with the students and is a representative of the Talent Search, which is a part of the United States Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Talent Search recruits youth who can not afford to attend college and teaches them how they may go to college without funding from their parents.

"There are no if ands or buts as far as I am concerned," said Garza, "A person can go to college if he wants to and we can tell him how."

The Lubbock office of Talent Search covers a 60-mile radius helping students and a 120-mile radius for placing those students in the 15 colleges in that area.

"We have three objectives in the program. The first is to identify the students' needs, potential and desire. The second is inform him of what is available in the way of financial aids. We take them to the financial aids office of the college they want to attend, such as we are doing today at West Texas. Then we try to place them in school, advise them on their proper forms and even help them with actual registration if necessary."

The Talent Search has been open in Lubbock for almost two years and has placed approximately 400 youths in college during that time and has provided information to about 6,000 others, according to Garza.

"For many of the prospective students there is no where to go but up," said Garza. One of the Talent Search students, Christine Flores, who is presently enrolled at West Texas was with the group.

There were 30 Lubbock High School students and two Hale Center High School students, but it is not necessary that a person be enrolled in a high school to receive help from Talent Search.

"We are very pleased with our first two years. We think that we have been very successful," added Garza.

Garza will return to Canyon Feb. 24 to participate in the "Chicano Awareness Week." which is being sponsored by the West Texas State El Chicano Club.

Gary McDade, director of case work for Big Brother, said the Sigma Nu fraternity will be visited tonight at 7 o'clock in the lodge, and next Sunday the Phi Delta Thetas will hold a meeting with Big Brother.

"We are looking to college boys to help with our program because we need more volunteers," McDade pointed out.

Magazine Tells Of Work Of Radio Astronomer

The work of Barry G. Clark, the son of Mrs. A.A. Clark, 2501 Seventh Ave., is described in an article on "Intercontinental Radio Astronomy" in the February issue of Scientific American.

The magazine story describes a system which employs television tape recorders and a digital processor to record date gathered by radio astronomy. The system, said the writer," has recently been developed at the National Radio Astronomy Observatory by Barry G. Clark and others..."

Clark, who works at the observatory in Green Bank, W.Virginia, is a graduate of Canyon High School and the logy. He attended Caltech on a four-year science fellowship from Union Carbide. In 1964, he received his doctorate and began his work in West Virginia.

Belief Is Panel Topic

"Why I Believe — Or Do I?" will be the discussion topic for those who meet at the Methodist Student Center, 107 26th St., Sunday evening.

Worship at 7 p.m. in the chapel will be followed by a panel discussion in Great Hall at 7:30. On the panel are Sheryl Fees, Teddi Crager, Bill Moore, and Dr. Ray Hinders. Greg Feris is program director.

Basic Christian doctrines concerning belief in God, the Bible, sin, and salvation will be explored.

No Word Yet About By-Pass

Canyon has not received a reply from the Texas Highway Commission in answer to a letter sent last week by Mayor Manly Bryan concerning the I-27 by-pass around Canyon.

Bryan asked the commission steps available to the people of the city in appealing the decision to run the by-pass east of Canyon rather than the western route.

The mayor also quizzed the commission as to "additional studies" made by the highway department that led to the decision for the eastern corridor.

"We feel we, as well as all the citizens of Canyon, should know what these additional studies were," the letter from Bryan to the chairman of the commission read.

Bryan also explained that the points for the western route "are valid and should be paramount The routing of this relatively short section of the interstate directly affects only the citizens of Canyon in the long run."

City Manager George Loudder said he expects an answer to the letter within a few days.

WT Enrollment Hits 6,371

The total enrollment at West Texas State University was 6,371 as of the 12th class day, according to Dr. Donald Cates, registrar.

This figure compares with 6,888 for the final spring enrollment last year, Dr. Cates said.

The number of students commuting to WTSU was down this spring by 525 students. The number of commuting students this year is 2,935 compared to 3,460 last year.

The total drop in enrollment this year was 517, Dr. Cates said.

The number of full-time students this year is 4,836 compared with 4,965 last year. The number of part-time students this year is 1,508 compared with 1.923 last year which is a decrease of 415 students.

The number of Caucasian students dropped by 526 students this year but the number of Negro and Mexican-American students remained close to the same.

The number of Negro students this year was 114 compared to 134 last year and the number of Mexican-American students rose from 124 last year to 158 this year.

The number of students living on campus rose this spring from 1,641 last year to 1,761 this year Dr. Cates said.

Dr. Cates said that the enrollment drop this spring was primarily in Caucasian, part-time commuting students.

The cost for a part-time student is exhorbant compared to what the student used to pay and also the economic situation and the wage-price freeze had some effect on the enrollment drop, Dr. Cates said.

"There were people who had gone to school in the past that decided they couldn't afford to do so this year," Dr. Cates said.

The number of males students declined from 4,095 last year to 3,736 this spring. The number of female students also dropped from 2,793 to 2.635 this spring. The number of married students dropped from 2,902 to 2.502 this spring which is a decline of 400 married students.

Girls Invade Scouts

Remember the good ole days when the Boy Scouts could get away from all the pig-tailed, giggling girls and hide out in the wilderness for a night or two...?

Those days are gone forever, at least for Explorer Scouts. The formerly elite society for males has relaxed their rules in Explorer Posts and is now actively seeking female members.

Members of Explorer Post 666 in Canyon certainly do not seem to take offense at the recent changing of rules, for they boast several girl members.

Those in the post, though still interested in taking a few of those camp outs, are between the ages of 15,18 and are obviously past the stage of wanting to hide from the fair sex, while the girls are definitely past the pig-tail stage.

Chartered as an emergency service post, the 13 active members are learning to help with work during disasters and rescue of any type. Their instructor is Canyon Fire Chief Joe Rice.

The group concentrates on mobilization and communication; rescue, first aid and public safety; and emergency living and water rescue.

They are prepared to work with authorities during any type of disaster that might strike the Canyon area.

Post 666 has been organized about four months, according to Post Advisor Lee Roy Moreland and meet at 6:30 p.m. every Tuesday at the First Christian Church.

Snow Causes Traffic Accidents

The snow was the cause of two minor accidents on the Canyon Expressway Friday morning, according to officer James Haley.

One of the accidents occurred at McCormick Road when a vehicle hit the overpass and the other occurred six-tenths of a mile north of Canyon when a car hit a tree.

No injuries and moderate damage to the vehicles resulted, according to Haley.

Hazlewood Visits

Dr. Cornette said that Hazlewood would work with Dr. Ray Malzahn in the area of academic services.
